Happy new year from Inscapism!

It's a new year, and, like always, the London Eye held a fireworks show that just so happened to be so incredibly based enough to include the Jet2Holidays advert meme in it. Y'know, the trend of putting the Jet2Holidays ad audio ("Nothing beats a Jet2 holiday...") over videos of weird things happening. I spent my New Years' at my dad's place, watching the fireworks on TV. Since resolutions are too hard to commit to, I resolve to not resolve anything. How fun. Look forward to Deltarune Chapter 5, Rhythm Paradise Groove, the movie GOAT, the movie Hoppers and more progress on InkSpill and Co. throughout the year. - Finley Farrah

"JASPERISALMOSTOVERKEYQUEST2FIRSTGAMEOF2026
STARBUGNOWINDEVALLTHELIPSDDESIGNEDSORRYBYE!" - G.B.

I suppose this message is still kind of appropriate considering it was Chinese new year not too long ago, so I just want to say happy new year to all of our faithful readers both online and offline. We've been pretty absent printed wise but we are back yet again because we're like that. Compared to us the Chinese celebrate new years a little differently, while in the UK a couple of fireworks outside big ben will suffice in China they go the extra mile and hold a huge parade with lot's of homemade dragons and lanterns. To this day Chinese New Year is a staple in the world of holidays so it leaves me to say happy year of the fire horse!-Harry Watson

Good B.ye

Hey Everyone! Uh... You uh.... Might not be Happy About This but, *ahem*, I, G.B. Himself, Plan to Retire from Inscapism by Issue 12. (well, it'll be the 13th issue coz issue 4½ screwed up the count a bit) However, This Will Only Happen If I Suceed at The 1-3 GCSEs I Gotta ~~At Least get the Bare Minimum~~ Do My Best To Get to DISC, Like Finley (my goat btw). If I Flop? I Can just Try Again Next Year, But this Means my Retirement Will be Delayed. More Info Soon. Maybe. I Dunno, its Almost 8:30 PM As I Write This on December 11th, and I'm Modifying it right now as of writing, that "now" being January 23rd at 2:32 PM, and Again on January 30th at 1:59 PM. Yeah.

Red Haired Rookie Chapter 7

An Original Written By Harry Watson
Illustrated by Harry Watson

It was past midnight; the dark quiet streets of Bedfordshire were empty with nothing but streetlamps, houses and an occasional post box to keep them company. The yellow comer van chugged down the road, smoke pouring from its rusty exhaust. Ruby, Bobby and Bella were sitting in the back with the drummer Norman, the founder of the band 'Mickey Mason', and base guitarist Matt sat in the front.

The ages for all the members ranged from teen to 40 years old with the founder Mickey being the oldest. Matt was an old friend from his college years, who personally volunteered to help Mickey start the band 20 years ago. Norman was in his 30's, with Bella and Bobby being the youngest.

"So, your dad?" Norman asked Ruby, "Has he always been a risk taker?"

"Well..." began Ruby "Sort of...He would never shy away from a challenge but for as long as I've known him protecting me and Bobby was his biggest priority."

"Yeah, this doesn't really sound like something he'd do unless he was threatened" replied Norman.

"But he wasn't." butted in Bobby, "He and his boss agreed that this would be his last race, we're just coming over to make sure nothing bad happens to him."

"Such as?" asked Norman curiously.

"Crashing during the race, getting arrested or killed, that sort of thing." replied Bobby.

Ruby cuddled up next to him in agreement and concern. Norman was just about to say something when the van came to a stop on the pavement. The sudden jolt gave the 3 a bit of a surprise for a moment. Ruby thought they hit something, but after regaining her footing she realised they had arrived outside the Woolworths. The once empty car park was now rows and rows of performance and modified cars. From expensive Lamborghinis to Escorts in body kits. Mickey turned over to both Bobby and Ruby and spoke:

"Well...if your old man's anywhere, he's 'ere."

Ruby cuddled up next to him in agreement and concern. Norman was just about to say something when the van came to a stop on the pavement. The sudden jolt gave the 3 a bit of a surprise for a moment. Ruby thought they hit something, but after regaining her footing she realised they had arrived outside the Woolworths.

The once empty car park was now rows and rows of performance and modified cars. From expensive Lamborghinis to Escorts in body kits. Mickey turned over to both Bobby and Ruby and spoke:

"Well...if your old man's anywhere, he's 'ere."

Ruby gave a sigh of relief and Bobby gave a grimaced smile. He bumped his head on the roof of the van as it came to a halt, so he was in a bit of pain but not too much. He was still coordinated enough to realise getting in was going to be rather difficult, especially with two beefy men working the gate.

"Alright Bo, how are we getting in there?" asked Bella.

Bobby recomposed himself and discussed the plan to everyone.

"Alright so here's what I had in mind. Mickey, you, Bella, Norman and Matt drive up to the entrance to the Woolworths, then tell the guards you're here to provide the musical entertainment. That will provide me and Ruby enough time to get into the car park via sneaking round the back. There's a small alleyway at the back of the store. We'll climb over the fence in the least popular area, then we'll fan out and try to find dad. Everyone got that?"

Everyone nodded in agreement.

"Good, then let's not waste anymore time" replied Bobby.

“Ruby, you're with me. Mickey, once we disappear around the back drive the van up. Got it?”

“Righto mate” Mickey spoke.

With that, both Bobby and Ruby crept out of the van. As not to raise suspicion, gingerly, yet quickly they made their way down the dark, dense, dirty alley. Ruby felt nervous walking down the alley, but her fear of losing her dad made her soldier on. Meanwhile Mickey, Matt, Bella and Norman drove up to the entrance of the car park. Naturally, the men working the gate were perplexed by the arrival of this shabby unknown van, so one of them walked up to investigate.

The guard walked over to the front of the van and spoke.

“What’s your business ‘ere sir, authorized vehicles only.”

“Musical entertainment purposes mate” replied Matt. “We got a call asking if we could do a gig here.”

The guard looked surprised, but not too much to the point where he would ask an anthology of questions.

“Y’know, it does sound like something our boss would do, but if he were to do something like this, he would’ve told us and make sure that the area wasn’t crawling with filth.”

“Filth?” Norman asked.

“Cops...” Mick said turning his head.

The guard then gave them both a suspicious look peering deep into the commer’s cab. Ruby jumped, climbed over the fence and landed just next to Bobby. The pair looked ahead at the bustling car meet with determination confidence. “We’re in.” quietly said bobby “Now let’s find dad.”

“Sir, I'm going to have to do some investigation work. I cannot let any of you in until I get word from the boss that your supposed to be here.”

As the guard walked off to get his mobile the bad members looked at each in deep concern. Bella looked the most concerned, she glanced at the alleyway, which Ruby and Bobby went down, hoping the two had made it in.

“Come on guys...the time is now” she thought, hoping that both the siblings would be okay.

As it turned out, not too far away, Bobby was giving his little sister a boost to try get over the car park fence in area where nobody could see them.

“Steady now Ruby, don’t fall” whispered Bobby under his breath.

“Relax...” quietly reassured Ruby. “I’ve done plenty of stuff like this at the climbing frame at school. Now a bit more to left please.”

Bobby obliged and soon ruby gingerly climbed over the fence and lowered herself back down to the ground, with Bobby following suit. He jumped, climbed over the fence and landed just next to Ruby. The pair looked ahead at the bustling car meet with determination confidence.

“We’re in” quietly said Bobby “Now let’s find dad.”

Birth of the CheeseBurger

A Long, Long Time Ago, In Ol' Nineteen-Thirty-Twelve BC, At 5:69 PM,
A Chinese Man Named Chang-Bing-Ling-Ding-Dong-Ditch,
Was Making Sausages in His Bakery In Sweden.

He Moved There Twenty Years Before.

However, He Accidently Dropped it on a Bread Slice, Then Another One Fell on And Squashed the Sausage Flatter than
A Piece of Paper in the Winter. Chang Realised He Had Made a Home-Run, And Started Selling them as "Beef BungLaps".

However, He Forgot to Patent the Recipe.

2 Years Later, Finland's John McDonald Heard About "Beef BungLaps" and Decided to Take the Recipe, Rename it to "CheeseBurger", Start a Restaurant to Sell the CheeseBurgers and Make a Million.

And As You Might Know By Now, That he Did.

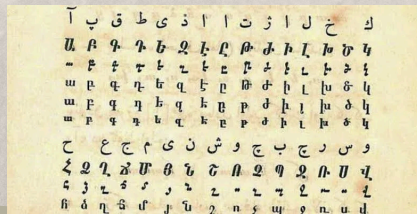

"McDonald's" Became a Smash-Hit. Spreading from Finland to Across the World. And when Mr. John Kicked the Bucket 35 Years Later, His Son, "Simon Mcdonald Onald", Became the Head of the Chain.

As For Chang-Bing-Ling-Ding-Dong-Ditch? He Still Did Well
After the incident, And is still a Small-Yet-Successful Family Owned

Bakery To This Day.

He Kept his Bakery Successful by making a NEW Snack:
Wrapped Piggies, Now Known as the Sausage Roll.

Turkish (Turkish: Türkçe) is an Oghuz Turkic language spoken by about 90 million people, and is the most widely spoken language in the Oghuz branch of the Turkic language family. Spoken by approximately 85 million native speakers and 110 million total speakers, it accounts for the vast majority of Oghuz language speakers. The most spoken variety of Turkish is Istanbul Turkish, which is the standard form of the language taught in schools and used in the media. While other dialects exist, Istanbul Turkish is the official and most prominent one. Turkish is one of the politest languages in the world. It was first spoken in Mongolia and has been influenced by languages like Arabic and Persian. Apart from being the national language of Turkey, it has a considerable number of speakers in Syria, Iraq, Germany, Bulgaria, Austria, Greece, and other European and Asian countries.

The Turkish language originated from the Turkic language family in a region of East Asia around modern-day Mongolia and northwestern China. Even though Turkey is the most spoken language in Turkey, the three most spoken languages in Turkey are Turkish, Kurdish, and Arabic. Turkish is the official and most widely spoken language, while Kurdish and Arabic are significant minority languages spoken by a large portion of the population:

- Turkish: Spoken by approximately 90% of the population as their mother tongue.
- Kurdish: The second most common language, spoken by about 15-20% of the population, mainly in the eastern and southeastern parts of the country.
- Arabic: Spoken by around 1.4% of the population, with a significant number of speakers in the southeastern region.

Merhaba - Hello

Nasılsın? - How are you?

phrases for politeness such as Lütfen - Please

Teşekkürler - Thank you

You can also say something

How are you doing today? - Bugün nasılsın?

See you later - Sonra görüşürüz

"Togore Dreemurr" by Finley F.

A joke Undertale/Deltarune fan character named after the idea of Asriel Dreemurr being named after his parents, Toriel and Asgore. I drew him after a vote on whether the player character in the Undertale 10th anniversary stream should be called Togore, Gaster or Chara. I also drew a fan interpretation of Gaster.

Expect to see these guys soon in InkSpill and Co.

"Thousand-Year FRIEND" by Finley F.

Another piece of DELTARUNE fanart. Recently, DELTARUNE fans have found out about Wachifield, an obscure Japanese children's book series that may have inspired Toby Fox to create the character of IMAGE_FRIEND, among other things. The Thousand-Year Sloth, a villainous creature from one of the books, hugely resembles FRIEND, so I traced over it to create this.

SUPER MARIO LAND

Released: 1989 (JP) 1990 (UK)

Developers: Nintendo JP

“The Plumber of Egypt”

Platforms: Game Boy, 3DS,
Switch 1/2

Prior to 1989, Handheld Gaming was Basically Non-Existent. Sure, People Had Made Some Since 1979's Microvision, But They Were LED Systems, So Yeah, They Sucked. The Game Boy was Different.

It was LCD-Based This Time Around, So FOUR Shades of Mono Could be Seen, not Just Two. But what Allowed Handhelds to Keep On Thriving was the Game Boy's Launch Game, Tetris Super Mario Land 1.

The Music's Good for a Game Boy Launch Title, the Level Design's Cool, And It's a Good Game to Pick-Up-And-Play Sometimes! However, The Graphics are Simply Decent, Unlike SMB1, and the Physics are a Bit Wonky, like SMB1.

While Super Mario Land 2 is The Better Game,
Let The Original Have it's Dues!

SONIC R

"I may or may not be feeling the sunshine."

Released: 1997 (JP) 1998 (UK)

Developers: SEGA, TT Games

Platforms: Saturn,

GameCube, PS2, PS3, PC

After Sonic 3D came out, Sega just couldn't get the taste of 3D Gaming out their mouths,

So they Partnered up with TT Games One More Time to make an On-Foot Racer.

Development was pretty short, only lasting 9-ish months.

And TRUST ME, those were 9 months well spent!

First Off-the-Bat, this is the Best Lookin' Game on the Saturn! AND it gets EVEN BETTER on the PC/PS2/PS3/XBOX/GameCube/Micro-Wave version!

The Controls are... Well... they aren't exactly the best for a Racing game, but you DO get used to them Quickly, at least!

And Then there's the SOUNDTRACK. I LOVE IT.

Every Song, Every Jingle, Every Melody And Every Note. ALL OF IT.

Let's talk Content for a sec. When it comes to Stages in This Game,

There's Sadly Just A Mere 5, but the CHARACTERS... Well, Not to Spoil Anything, but there's 9 Racers, and 5 of them are Unlockable! That Ain't Bad!

All This combined makes a Worthy Rival to Mario Kart 64,

Which Released around a year prior. Sadly, this was The Last Sonic game for 13 whole YEARS, until Sonic 4. This is also (kinda) the reason

Sega went Third-Party. Shame this Review had to end on a sour note.
